Self-analysis

On a scale of one-to-ten I rate my knowledge in the following areas as:

- I understand orange and red dashboard lights
- I know how to tell that footbrake is operating correctly
- I always conduct my pre-start safety checks before I conduct a rolling brake test
- I would never take out the vehicle if the brake warning light remains on

(Write your one-to-ten rating against each item above)

Your target rating for this section is 10 against each item.

Unlike some aspects of driving skill where 8+ would be an acceptable self-rating the answers to these questions are all factual - there is no element of judgment involved.

If you feel unsure about putting a 10 against any of the headings, go back over the relevant study information again until you have an instinctive knowledge.

Complete these checks every week in addition to your daily checks.
